NEW BUSINESS ERA

GLENDALE LEAGUE FOR HOME BUSINESS AND BETTER BUSINESS

The undersigned, believing it would benefit Glendale, will patronize Glendale Business People as much as may be practicable, and give them the benefit of the doubt.

Name Business Address

As heretofore published, the foregoing agreement has been circulated for signatures, and "its circulation is good." In other words, it meets with general public approval. People are cheerfully signing that paper who could hardly be induced to sign anything else except a receipt, being averse on principle to signing any documents containing a public appeal. "But," they say, "this is different. It is without doubt good for Glendalians to unite on any plan for public betterment."

It is interesting to hear some of the comments. But it is being signed by optimists and pessimists alike; the former with a hopeful smile, the latter with a sardonic grin. The optimist has at least the pleasure of anticipation.

Previous effort has been made to get closer co-operation between the buyers and the sellers in Glendale. But this is the first time there has ever been a house-to-house canvass. It would help the cause if you who have not already signed would fill out the coupon at the head of this article and send it to the Chamber of Commerce.

Quite a number of prominent citizens when signing made a suggestion in substance as follows: "Why not get the business people of Glendale to do business at Los Angeles prices?"

As a matter of fact some of them do. Perhaps the sellers in Glendale also may sign a mutual agreement that will show the same good Glendalian spirit manifested in the signers to the Glendale League for Home Business and Better Business.

Our Glendale merchants are all right and the prospects are bright for an all-around mutual agreement which will herald a new era of business prosperity in Glendale—the only thing lacking in this most beautiful City of Homes.

OLIVER RESIGNS FROM BOARD

Irving H. Oliver has resigned as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Glendale Union High school and the board has appointed Mr. Oliver clerk of the board in order to relieve Prof. Moyse of the arduous duties of that position which he has filled heretofore. It now devolves upon county superintendent of schools Mark Keppel to appoint some one to fill the place left vacant by Mr. Oliver's resignation. The members of the Board have recommended Attorney Hartley Shaw, 144 West Park avenue, Tropico, for the place, and it is very likely that he will be appointed.

BEACH HOUSE PARTY

It was a lively party of young folks that spent several days at the Apartment Maryland, Santa Monica, for the week-end under the chaperonage of Mrs. J. G. Hunchberger. They had a jolly time doing all the things that young people find so delightful at the beach.

Those enjoying the house party were the Misses Evangeline and Virginia Hunchberger, Carrie Stone and Evelyn Gregg, Messrs. Will Johnson and Seymour Smith.

HAPPENINGS IN STATE

FIRST OF CALIFORNIA'S QUOTA OF NEW ARMY LEAVE HOMES TO-DAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Four hundred twenty-seven young men of California left their home cities to-day to do battle for democracy against Kaiserism. These men were the first called under the selective service law—five per cent. of each of 13 California counties and cities quotas. Each day from now until September 10, additional men will entrain until all of the California counties have sent their first increment of men to the American Lake training camp. Entrainment of the men was marked in all counties by the same procedure to-day. The men assembled at headquarters of their local board. There they submitted their baggage to inspection and those things determined unnecessary were ordered left behind. A small suit case containing toilet articles and a change of clothing was all they were allowed to take. Then they came formally under military orders. From this morning on Uncle Sam paid for their board and lodging and their services were his. The Californians go to the American Lake, Washington, cantonment for their training.

Here are the counties of California from which men entrained to-day and the number entraining: San Francisco, 196; Sacramento City, 10; El Dorado, 3; Imperial, 33; Riverside, 13; San Diego county, 11; Humboldt, 17; Sacramento county, 22; Los Angeles county, 55; Orange, 19; San Bernardino, 25; Pasadena, 6; San Diego City, 17.

The case of Frank C. Oxman, charged with attempting to persuade F. E. Rigall of Grayville, Ill., to testify falsely against Thos. Mooney in the bomb murder cases, came before Superior Judge Dunne to-day for trial. Recent reports from Oxman's home in Oregon that Oxman's health was failing caused some doubt as to whether he would be placed on trial to-day. Oxman has not appeared in court for many weeks.

Sole—beloved of epicures—graced many a poor man's table in San Francisco to-day. In the markets it sold for five cents a pound. To-day was the first of California "Fish Days" and hereafter in the state fish market just opened in San Francisco by State Market Director Harris Weinstock, each Wednesday will see one sort of fish on sale at a jitney a pound. Later Weinstock plans to extend the scheme to other California cities. The idea is two-edged—first it brings fish food into more widespread use and so conserves meat; secondly it hits a stiff blow at the high cost of living.

Milk and cream joined the flight of foodstuffs skyward in San Francisco to-day. Milk raised two cents a quart—from 10 cents to 12 cents—to the consumer, while the producers received 25 cents a gallon instead of 18½ cents from the retailer.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Sept. 5.—Santa Rosa is going to be about the busiest little city on the face of the earth the last of this month. The annual meeting of the League of Municipalities is the inspiration, but not all. A public welfare exposition and pure food show—the only one this year with official sanction—will take place during the meeting of the municipal league; the state board of health will conduct a health congress; a meeting of the state health officers association will be held; and the state milk and dairy inspectors will gather to form an association. That all will take place in one week. Santa Rosa is to do its part as hosts. One of the leading hotels has been given over to the domestic science class of the high school and the girls of the class will take charge of the kitchen, likewise the dining room, for one night during the week and cook and serve the banquet which is to be a feature of the week. Not the least interesting exhibit to be presented to the visitors will be one promised by Burbank, the plant wizard. Burbank will present "The Evolution of Wheat," showing it in all stages of development from the practically wild form up to his latest development, the "Five Fold Wheat" which Burbank has just perfected and which is credited with yielding five times as much per acre as the common variety.

SPOKANE, Wash, Sept. 5.—A "Holy City" will arise near Spokane. St. John the Baptist, Peter, Paul, the Virgin Mary and Joseph—these and a thousand other Biblical characters—will trod the streets. The dramas, tragedies, romances of the time of Christ will be acted within its gates—for the churches of America have adopted the movies in their campaign for souls. Tyrone Powers has organized a moving picture company,

ALLIES PLAN CAMPAIGN AGAINST AUSTRIA

TO OFFSET THE MENACE OF THE RUSSIAN SITUATION AND FORCE GERMANY TOWARD PEACE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, September 5.—To offset the menacing possibilities in the Russian situation and force Germany into a rapid peace, the Allies are to undertake soon an anti-Austrian campaign, it is said. Strong pressure is being exerted on this government to declare war on Austria and then aid in downing her. Officials here see an imminent possibility of war with Austria, but thus far they are waiting for Austria to declare it.

ATTACK CHICAGO MAYOR'S AUTO

SOLDIERS, SAILORS AND CIVILIANS STOP PARADE OF FIFTY MACHINES ON WAY TO KANKAKEE FAIR

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

CHICAGO, September 5.—Sailors, soldiers and civilians "raided" Mayor Thompson's parade of fifty autos as they were passing by Grant Park en route to the Kankakee county fair to launch his Senatorial campaign. Banners were torn from the autos and cries of "slacker" and "take that American flag from your car," were hurled at him. Thompson sat hunched in the back seat of his car with only the top of his hat visible.

NEW ARMY MOVES TO CANTONMENTS

FIRST GROUP OF DRAFTED MEN PASS FROM CIVIL TO MILITARY LIFE TO-DAY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, September 5.—The first group of drafted men passed from civil to military life to-day when the general movement to the cantonments began. Monday will see the first 34,350 men encamped. The second contingent leaves September 19 and the third October 3.

AIR RAIDS CAUSE MANY DEATHS

THIRD GERMAN ATTACK ON ENGLAND IN THREE DAYS BRINGS NUMBER OF KILLED TO 117

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, September 5.—The third German air raid on England in the same number of days caused the death of nine and injured 49 in London. British total deaths since Sunday are 117 with 141 injured. Twenty machines participated in the latest raid.

This is the first time since the outbreak of the war that a German air raid on England is shown to be of "military value" to the invaders. Teuton airplanes have swooped down the past three days on naval centers, coast towns and the London district. The official reports state that "our machines went up and anti-aircraft guns came into action but without result." The material damage caused by the air raids is said to be slight.

THREE PER CENT TAX ON WAR PROFITS

WAR REVENUE BILL WITH THREE PER CENT. WAR PROFITS AMENDMENT EXPECTED TO PASS TO-DAY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, September 5.—A three per cent. tax on war profits will be voted in the Senate this afternoon according to the program of the finance committee. The committee amendment will raise $1,006,000,000, practically double the sum originally planned to raise from this source.

SUBMARINE BOMBARDS PORT

TOWN OF SCARBOROUGH VICTIM OF GERMAN U-BOAT THREE ARE KILLED AND FIVE INJURED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, September 5.—A German submarine bombarded the British town of Scarborough, killing 3 and injuring 5.

DEATH OF MRS. PARKER

Mrs. Ella J. Parker, wife of John M. Parker, passed away at her home, 803 West Fifth street, Tuesday morning, September 4, 1917, at the age of 67 years. She is survived by her husband and one daughter and one son.

Funeral services will be held at the home of the daughter, Mrs. Bronner, 802 West Fifth street, at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. Interment in Forest Lawn cemetery. The Scovern-Letton Frey Co., funeral directors, are in charge.

WHITTENS REMAIN IN GLENDALE

R. H. Whitten, who recently sold his beautiful home on Kenneth road, is moving into the dwelling house at 148 South Kenwood street, which until a few weeks ago was owned and occupied by C. O. Pulliam. The Whitten place was purchased by Al G. Faulkner of Los Angeles, the consideration reported to be $35,000. The Whitten family will reside at their new home on Kenwood while Mr. Whitten is absent attending to property interests in the North.

SAN JACINTO PEAK

MISS EULA RICHARDSON DESCRIBES SIERRA CLUB HIKE

The San Jacinto Mountain climb is considered one of the finest of Southern California, so it was a delighted group of Sierra club members that left Los Angeles last Friday morning. They created quite a sensation in the P. E. station, judging from the way people gathered around and stared. But their thoughts most likely were of wonder rather than censure. The hikers could not help but feel their importance when their train time came at nine o'clock to hear the gateman shout "This way for the Sierra Club Special," and what a spectacle—an army of over thirty strong filing though with knapsacks on their backs, the dunnage bags over their shoulders and maybe a package of "eats" in addition. The bedding and provisions would be carried over the trail by pack animals but now each member was looking out for his own.

The party were taken by the electric car to San Bernardino, where they were transferred to auto stages. It was an interesting ride out via Hemet to a half mile above Idyllwild for overnight camp. That night at our campfire with its natural surroundings of pines and cedars, the mountain lovers listened to interesting discourses by members of the party. They heard the old Indian legends of this strange country and attention was called to the flora and fauna of that region and how best to obtain what the mountains had to give if each were but receptive. Then there was also the spontaneous singing of those joyous hiking songs.

The next day's trip was a long series of especially fine mountain scenery. Many had lunch up on Tahquitz Peak (8826 feet elevation). These mountains are of granite formation and as the lines of cleavage are vertical, they rise very abruptly and the sides are very rugged with broken rock weathered some by rain but mostly by wind and extremes of temperature. At a distance the rock is light in color but on close observation along the trail, it is varicolored, partly due to minerals and partly to small plant growth. The views from the peaks are very extensive, but the fine scenery through Taquitz Valley was appreciated just as much. Many said the fine forests reminded them of the country around Lake Tahoe. It was too late to see many kinds of wild flowers, but there were signs that in the spring and early summer they were in abundance. Now there were only the lingering blossoms of the lupine, the scarlet penstemin and a few others of the summer flowers. But of the late summer and autumn there were the brilliant red blossoms of the California fuchsia giving the note of cheerfulness on the dry open slopes, and also the goldenrod, and on the damp meadows an abundance of lovely purple asters among the grasses and ferns.

After leaving Taquitz Valley the trail leads up and into the Tamrac Valley, so named on account of the extensive forest of tall and stately Tamrac Pines. Here the party

TRAVELER'S SHOWER

Miss Dorothy Brockman, who is leaving Glendale with her parents to reside in Hemet, was the complimented guest at a "traveler's shower" given by Miss Mary Blackburn at her home, 235 Cedar street, on Tuesday afternoon. The guests were the members of Miss Blackburn's Sunday School class. The afternoon was most pleasantly spent in some very interesting games and guessing contests which had been prepared by their hostess. A musical game proved of much interest to the honored guest and afforded much amusement to the others. A number of articles were placed at intervals on the dining table and to a little march the guests were instructed to circle the table and when the music stopped to grab the article opposite them. A huge band box fell to the lot of Miss Dorothy and on opening it was found to contain a number of "useful" articles to a traveler, such as box of chocolate creams, post cards, etc., and other packages not to be opened until her arrival at her new home. Miss Dorothy will enter high school at Hemet and no doubt these little gifts from friends will help tide over the first days of possible homesickness. Delicious cake and ice cream were served by Miss Blackburn to her young guests. Those invited were the Misses Hilda Brooks, Lois Rettig, Carolyn Gray, Faith Kennedy, Florence Bruce, Eunice Colwell, Ada Colwell, Josephine Emery and the honored guest, Dorothy Brockman.

THE GAS QUESTION

CITIZENS REQUEST TRUSTEES OF CITY OF GLENDALE TO INVESTIGATE GAS QUESTION

In response to a call published in Tuesday's Evening News inviting the citizens of Glendale to meet at the Chamber of Commerce room to discuss the question of a change in the gas rates, a number of people assembled and very emphatically placed themselves on record as being opposed to the procedure of the State Railroad Commisison in ruling that the cost of gas be increased in Glendale, especially without giving the local municipality an opportunity to be heard.

On motion of Dr. C. D. Kingsley, the secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce was instructed to request the Glendale city trustees to inquire of the Attorney General of the State of California whether the Railroad Commission had authority to so increase the price of gas and thus abrogate the existing contract between the City of Glendale and the Southern California Gas Company without due notice to said City of Glendale, and at the same time submit to the Attorney General a copy of the contract between said City and the Gas Company.

Then on motion of J. W. Fairchild it was Resolved, that after ascertaining the facts requested in the foregoing motion of Dr. Kinsley, if it be found best for the City of Glendale to own and operate the gas plant used by the city, it is requested that then the City Trustees investigate the cost of gas and installment of pipes and the whole expense of distribution of gas in this city, including a complete municipal gas system, and to take such further steps as may seem proper.

The motion was unanimously carried. The meeting then adjourned.

WALT. LE NOIR CHURCH,
Secretary.

CAMPBELLS RETURN

Mrs. Daniel Campbell and family returned Tuesday from Coronado, where they have been spending the summer. Her many firends will be pleased to know that Mrs. Campbell is returning much benefited by the stay at this delightful resort.

Mrs. Campbell reports a very enjoyable time, not all play, as the serious note pervades all the diversions of the Tent City. Mrs. Campbell with the other ladies have been engaged in Red Cross work or, as they call it there, the Woman's Section Naval Reserve, as the work is largely for the Navy. The ladies were constantly engaged in making surgical bandages, knitting, etc. Teas and card parties and other games for those who did not play cards, with Mrs. Cheney as hostess of the camp, were given for the benefit of the work and were very well attended. Launch trips and chop suey suppers were also popular.

The concerts twice daily by La Monaca and his band were very fine. On request of Mrs. Campbell, sacred music was played on Sunday, an innovation, much appreciated by the majority of the visitors. A number of soloists gave variety to the music, among them Madame Constance Balfour and others equally well known.

FAREWELL PARTY

Eugene Imler was the honored guest at a jolly party given at the home of his mother, Mrs. D. H. Imler, 310 West Park avenue, Wednesday evening. Mr. Imler has just returned from Huntington Lake to resume his studies at Throop College and this affair was given in order that the members of the younger social set of which Eugene is a popular member might have an opportunity to greet him. The evening was spent in dancing and singing. Later dainty refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The invited guests were the Misses Esther Shremp, Catherine Phillips, Ernestine Lyons, Dorothy Hunt, Waunita Emery, Evangeline Hunchberger, Margaret Boucher, Florence Heacock and her house guest, Miss Ardella Sherrill of Kansas, Miss Hilda Englehardt, Brawley, and Miss Emma Haggerty of Los Angeles, Messrs. Archie Ladder, Thos. Phillips, Owen Wilson, Earl Brown, Wm. Renshaw, John Sharpe, Howard McGillis, Seymour Smith and Eugene Imler.

ARE YOU INTERESTED?

The question of cheaper instead of dearer gas is up for consideration by the citizens of Glendale at the City Hall to-morrow, Thursday, evening. You are invited.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Thursday. Westerly winds.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1917

HOW ENGLAND SAVED

In strong contrast to their neighbors, the French across the English channel, the masses of the English people a few years ago were proverbially a spendthrift rather than a saving race. But the great war has wrought a change.

In the year 1916 although purchasing billions of dollars of war bonds the small savings banks depositors in England increased their deposits over sixty million dollars.

It was patriotism that started this great change in the people of the nation. The English people started saving their money because they saw that it meant thrift and economy. They economized and saved for their own sake as well as for England's sake. Not only did they save money, but they economized in food, in fuel, in dress, in luxuries. More than one million English workers were purchasers, out of their savings, in the second great war loan of Great Britain, and eight million subscribed to their last war loan.

The question whether the civilian population should economize and do without certain things or the soldiers and sailors be denied things necessary for their effectiveness and safety was answered in no uncertain or unpatriotic way by the masses of the English people. They did their bit in financing their country.

Neither in ability nor in patriotism are the American people second to the English or the French or the German or any other nation. The Liberty Loan is at once an appeal and a pride. It appeals to their patriotism and their civic pride; it is an opportunity to save and an opportunity to serve their country.

No American need fear that the results of the American people's support of the Liberty Loan will fail to maintain America's traditional patriotism and power. The more than four million subscribers and the more than a billion over-subscription to the first issue of the Liberty Loan Bonds are eloquent testimony of the American people's loyalty to their government and their willingness and ability to give it financial support.

DOING THINGS IN ALASKA

The war has turned public attention from Alaska for the present, but recent reports of the progress of the government railroad there shows that development has been going on in a wonderful way.

Congress authorized the construction of this railroad March 12, 1914. The report gives building results up to the first year, when regular train service had been established from Seward on Resurrection Bay, to Gern Creek on Turnagain Arm, and from Anchorage to the Matanuska coal fields.

Anchorage was not on the maps issued previous to two years ago. It was not in existence then, and its site was a wilderness It. is one of those towns the new civilization of commerce and trade is building. It has a population of five thousand. It is the nearest tidewater railroad point for the interior, and its harbor is deep enough for the largest ships.

Seward, too, has grown from an untidy town of seven hundred people in 1914 to a population of two thousand and concrete business blocks, paved streets and a lot of modern improvements.

All this prosperity is due to the opening of vast coal deposits, the Matanuska fields, that were inaccessible until the railroad was built. Already the Pacific coast, which formerly got nearly all its coal from Australia and South Africa, is beginning to get a cheaper and better coal from Alaska.

No mineral deposit is inexhaustible, but the Alaskan coal fields are as near it as any, and no one can predict future development there.—K. C. Star.

READJUSTING WAGE SYSTEM

The need of readjustment of the present wage system, particularly among laboring men, is suggested in a report on the present living costs of the average wage earner, just completed by Professor M. E. Jaffa, of the University of California, and submitted by him to Governor William D. Stephens as chairman of the State Council of Defense.

Professor Jaffa's report, which is predicated upon exhaustive and careful investigations into present prices of living necessities, is made as a result of numerous inquiries received by both the State Council of Defense and the University of California from large employers of wage earners who are desirous of adjusting their wage systems so that employees may be able to support their families without hardship or necessary curtailment of necessary food and clothing.

That the increase in the cost of living has been thirty-three per cent and more for practically all necessities during the past two years and that a man with a wife and three children to support who receives $75 per month will have $2.50 left to pay for clothing, insurance and such extras after he has paid for necessary food, rent and shoes is the declaration of Professor Jaffa in his report. That many families of laboring men, in order to make both ends meet, have largely reduced their food consumption and that such reduction is being made at the expense of proper growth and development of children and impaired efficiency and endurance of adults, is the University of California savant's statement.

Food, clothing and shoes are the three living requisites which have shown the biggest increases in price, the two latter items jumping more than 50 per cent during the past 12 months, according to Professor Jaffa's report.

Taking rent, which he figures at $15 a month, and light and fuel at $1.50 and $3 respectively, as being items which have not increased in price during the past two years, Professor Jaffa shows that where the average wage earner expended $57.75 for necessary living expenses a year ago, the increases in food, clothing and shoes now make it necessary for him to pay out $72.50 each month in order to properly nourish, house and clothe himself and family. Taking the item of shoes alone in each family, the report states that where it cost $5.25 a month during 1916, the same shoes now cost $8 monthly, which is inclusive of repair charges, made necessary by the use of poorer materials.

Many families in an endeavor to exist, have found it necessary to cut down heavily on their daily food supply, with the result that stunted children, many diseases, inefficiency and early deaths will result from the lack of proper nutrition. Where food cost $33 each month during 1916, the wage earner with a wife and three children, now pays out $45 for the same edibles, says the report. Here are Professor Jaffa's table figures, not inclusive of clothes, showing the prices paid for necessities with the increases over one year ago:

	1916	1917
Rent	$15.00	$15.00
Light	1.50	1.50
Fuel	3.00	3.00
Food	33.00	45.00
Shoes	5.25	8.00
	$57.75	$72.50

Although setting forth carefully gathered facts regarding the increased cost of living, the report does not make any direct recommendations. Copies of the report, however, are being furnished to all employers of wage earners who make application for it.

Once the United States government is launched into the regulation of prices and necessities, to prevent extortion, its good work in this direction should not cease at the ending of the war. If this be a good thing in war, it also would be a good thing in peace. In truth, the government can give no better material service to the people in the mass than to stretch forth its paternalistic hand to protect them against greed.

HEAVY FRUIT SHIPMENTS

California's golden horn of plenty has poured a luscious fruit flood into the lap of the East this year. The Southern Pacific Company's records show that deciduous fruit shipments from last November up to August 27 of this year total 9903 carloads, the biggest in history. As compared with previous years the records read:

For 1914	8044
For 1915	7242
For 1916	9556
For 1917	9903

The grape movement is now on and the reports from all counties indicate a very heavy crop of table grapes. A recent Southern Pacific estimate placed the grape movement from California at 11,000 cars.

Railroad men are commenting upon the illustration of the old proverb: "It never rains but it pours," as seen in the fact that California's heaviest crops are taxing railroad facilities at a time when war freight and troop movements present unparalleled problems.

American ingenuity, enterprise and the "get-there" spirit are held as responsible for the ability of the railroads to rise to the occasion in the efficient manner they are doing.

Going as far as Heap's Peak, they abandoned their Buick and, laden with their camping outfit they hiked three miles farther, where they made camp. The scenery was wonderful and the fishing excellent. They had fish three times a day. All three pronounce it one of the most successful fishing trips they had ever taken.

RED CROSS NOTES

Henry P. Davison, Chairman of the Red Cross War Council, announces the launching of a Junior Red Cross open to all school children in the country. The new organization hopes to become a channel for patriotic service and interest to the 22,000,000 boys and girls of school age in the United States.

Membership in the Junior Red Cross is to be by schools. Whenever there has been placed in the local school fund an amount equal to 25c for every pupil, the school becomes a school auxiliary of the Red Cross, and is entitled to display a special Red Cross banner. At the same time every pupil becomes a Junior Member, and is entitled to wear the membership button.

The school fund can be raised by the school, or collected by subscription. In some states it will be raised by cities to cover all schools in the city districts. In other states the campaign will be for a state-wide fund and the enrollment of all the pupils in the state. In every case, however, the schools are to be associated with the local chapters of the Red Cross through a teachers' committee of the chapter.

The school fund will be used for the purchase of materials which the children will make up into Red Cross supplies, and for other uses in which the children will have a personal share. No part of it is to go for chapter or general expenses.

Membership in the Junior Red Cross will be developed by states. Division managers will appoint membership committees and school activities committees for each state. The membership committee stimulates interest and raises funds for the School Supply Fund. It will be composed of some of the most influential people devoted to educational affairs.

The school activities committee will be made up of vocational teachers and other school officials. Under its direction patterns of articles to be made, and other instructions for use in the vocational class rooms, will be prepared and sent to all the schools.

The plan has been developed by President MacCracken of Vassar, in consultation with school authorities and the National Red Cross. Dr. MacCracken said to-day:

"I believe in the Junior Red Cross, not only because of the great sums of money it will earn and the immense amount of supplies which the school pupils, especially in our technical schools will make, but because of its educational and patriotic value for the children.

"The work for the Red Cross will teach service for others and unselfish giving; it will stimulate interest in our national government and its policies during the war; and it will afford a useful release for the youthful energy which is stimulated by the violent and morbid aspects of war conditions, and if undirected, may cause under wrong conditions great increase of juvenile delinquency and crime.

"It is the success attained in many schools last year which has decided the Red Cross to undertake this important new step. The vocational classes in New York State alone last spring made over 40,000 articles during the last few weeks of the school year for the Red Cross.

"Universal testimony from the chapters showed that these were in every way up to the rigid standards of the organization. Mrs. Talbot, director of vocational education for girls in the state, says that in many cases she was told that their work was, if anything, better than that in the adult work."

camped for the night about two miles by trail from the summit of old San Jacinto, a height of 10,805 feet, for they were to rise early the next morning and be on top before the sun was up. The night seemed very short for many were up at three to start up the mountain. The moon was full and bright, so was a great help in keeping on the trail and also it gave a mysterious aspect to the surroundings. The white rocks seemed phosphorescent on the slopes about and one could imagine all kinds of figures with the tall black trees and shadows and especially at the highest altitudes where the trees became fewer and more bent and aged. Ah! and then that wonderful period between night and day. The moon was still shining in the west when the sun rose a most brilliant ruby red out of the mists over the Colorado Desert, which faded away in the distant mountains. Over on the opposite side from the desert, the great mountain peak cast a very clear cut shadow over the little farms and orchards nestled down amongst the foothills and on beyond under the haze of dawn one could imagine the large orange groves of Riverside county.

The desert views over the Coachella valley were even finer from the edge of the ridge on the side of Hidden Lake where the party had lunch that day. Every one was so impressed with grand specimens of the pines, cedars and firs all through this region as well as these sheer views into the depths below.

The last day's trip down into the desert was a hard one for many, but those who were slow were comforted by a heavy downpour of rain. But the early ones who came down all the way in the hot sun said it was almost too hot for their pleasure. The descent was made down the "Pine to Palms Trail" which brought the party into the picturesque Andreas Canyon with its cool water lined with the Washingtonian Palm growing in their native environment. Here the party were met by the auto stages that took them back to San Bernardino by way of Palm Springs and Banning.

MONDAY EVENING FRENCH CLASS

Although next Monday is Admission Day, the introductory meeting of the Monday evening French class will be held that evening, as our military boys are anxious to take advantage of every opportunity. However, those who are prevented from being present that evening will be given extra time the following Monday to study up the preliminaries. Many well-known Glendale folks enrolled their names as members of this class. Among them are the following: Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Beamon, Miss Pixley, Miss Elva Spencer, Miss A. Gray, Mr. Judson Douglas. Other friends who are thinking of joining are advised to start in with the rest of the class, as much better progress can be made when the whole class studies together the same lessons. The proceeds of this class will be devoted to Red Cross Washington Headquarters. Pupils must pay in advance for 10 lessons, $2.50 the course of ten. Boys selected for military duty are given instruction free. Mrs. Woods would be glad to see many young men ready to study French while waiting to be called for military training. Place and time of French class: every Monday evening, 7:30 sharp, at 1222 Milford street, Glendale. Phone Sunset Glendale 394.

NOTICE

In view of the recent decision of the California Railroad Commission raising gas rates in Glendale from 68c per thousand cubic feet to 80c, the Board of Trustees desires to discuss with the citizens of Glendale the advisability of instituting proceedings looking toward the establishment of a municipal gas plant operated by the Public Service Department. To that end, a public hearing will be held Thursday, August 6th, at eight o'clock p. m. in the Council Room at the City Hall. All citizens are urged to attend this hearing and express their views in regard to this matter.

TIME TO ASK QUESTIONS

Every citizen of Glendale should avail himself of the privilege of attending the mass meeting at the City Hall to-morrow, Thursday, evening, when the gas question will be taken up for discussion. If you are entirely familiar with this question, come out and tell your neighbors what you know upon the subject. If you do not know as much about it as you would like to know, come out and learn from your neighbors. There will be present those who have given the subject careful thought, and these persons will address you.

FOOD GAMBLERS

There's a place in Chicago called the grain pit. Most Americans feel like calling it something entirely different.

In this grain pit the price of wheat has been run up to about three times what the farmer who raised it got for it. And the men who have been running up the price and cleaning up millions in cold cash never did a tap to help raise that wheat—they never did anything except gamble in wheat.

Now what place has gambling in food got in our national life at a time when we are straining every resource to stop waste, to conserve our resources, to make every ounce of food and energy count its most? As a matter of fact it has a big place—but as a matter of justice it ought not to have any place. It ought to be stopped.

The Nebraska wheat farmer is a mighty useful person. He raises wheat. The railroads are mighty useful. They ship wheat from grower to user. The miller is a mighty useful person. He turns wheat into good flour. But the wheat gambler in the Chicago pit—he is the one useless factor in the whole chain. He does nothing but gamble in wheat.

And yet he—this gambler—fixes the price of wheat for the whole country, for the world. If there is one feeling of wrath in America that is justified to-day it is the feeling that the country would be well served if the whole Chicago grain pit could be kicked across Michigan boulevard into the chilly waters of Lake Michigan. —Whittier News.

WAR MAXIMS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Buy in bulk when you can. It is just as sanitary, a little less expensive and perhaps more satisfying.

When fruits and vegetables are plentiful this summer and autumn, get busy. Can or preserve them. There is a winter ahead of you, and you remember what you paid for canned goods last winter.

Communicate with any friends who are raising fruits and vegetables in home gardens and arrange to take supplies from them.

Spaghetti and macaroni have nutritive qualities equal to flour. Learn to use them in various ways.

Dry beans can be cooked in a variety of ways. No more nutritious food article is grown. Learn to make frequent use of them. You may obtain without charge information as to their uses from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Use your intelligence to conserve the sugar supply. Why have a sugar bowl on the table? Why not portion out sugar to each member of the household? Do the same thing with butter. Why not portion out all foodstuffs to be served at table? It can be done at home as well as in hotels and restaurants. You will be surprised at the amount saved.

Ask the men of the household to keep eyes and ears open for food bargains.

By all means keep an account book of the family expenditures. A "food budget" should be as carefully kept as the family savings bank book.

Preparation in advance for the family meals is essential. While the delicatessen store is a convenience, do not let it be a family habit.

Make an inventory of foods and household supplies. This should reveal any waste, extravagance or carelessness. Get rid of the non-essentials. What is not necessary, sell or give to a relief association.

Investigate the kitchen and those who work in the kitchen. Stop all leaks. It is just as scientific and patriotic to use and serve foods rightly as it is to learn how to find the range of the enemy.—Joseph Hartigan, in the New York Tribune.

THE MAN BEHIND THE PLOW

Just shout till you are wheezy hoarse,
From morn till set of sun,
About the man of nerve and force,
Who stands behind the gun.
There is another in these days,
Who merits, I allow,
An equal word of earnest praise—
The man behind the plow.

The soldier cannot live on hay,
Or dandelion greens;
He must have bread three times a day,
And butter, beef and beans.
If we would put the foe to rout,
With submarine and scow,
We never can succeed without
The man behind the plow.

The victory never can be won
By bomb or aeroplane,
By cannon ball or gatling gun,
Or warship on the main,
Without the strength and health that glow,
And mantle on the brow,
Made possible by those who sow—
The man behind the plow.

Then if you are too old to fight,
Too young to meet the foe,
Just use the spade with all your might,
Or grab a garden hoe.
World liberty must now be won
By horse and hen and cow,
By boy behind the ship and gun,
By men behind the plow.
—J. M. Cavaness.

A PACIFIST

At 3 years old Reginald was already a celebrated coward. Particularly he was afraid of all four-footed animals. There was talk in the family of adopting a dog.

"Would you like to have a dog, my son?" said the proud parent.

"No," said Reginald.

Somewhat later Reginald returned to his father's side. Evidently he had been turning over in his mind the proposition recently submitted.

"I'd like to have a dog," said he, "If I could have one with his mouth shut."—New York Evening Post.

A BOY'S MOTHER

My mother, she's so good to me,
Ef I was as good as I could be,
I couldn't be as good—no, sir!
Can't any boy be as good as her!

She loves me when I'm glad or mad;
She loves when I'm good or bad;
And what's the funniest thing, she says
She loves me when she punishes.

I don't like her to punish me;
That don't hurt; but it hurts to see
Her cryin'—nen I cry; an' nen
We both cry—an' be good again.

She loves me when she cuts an' sews
My little cloak an' Sunday clo'es;
An' when my pa comes home to tea,
She loves him most as much as me.

She laughs an' tells him all I said,
An' grabs me up an' pats my head;
An' I hug her an' hug my pa
An' love him purt' nigh much as ma.
—James Whitcomb Riley.

"How did you get rid of all your money?"

"Some of it I was touched for and some of it I was tagged for."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

STREET NUMBERS

People who keep track of such things say that 1912 was the four hundredth anniversary of the numbering of houses. It was begun in Paris in 1512, but the idea took a long time to catch on, for the system did not become general till 1789. In Berlin the houses were numbered at first without any reference to streets. It is still so in Yokohama. When a new house is built it is given the next number to the house built before—in perhaps an entirely different part of the town. No. 5 and No. 500 may be side by side. The only way to find a house is to drive in a rickshaw. The rickshaw men are infallible. In London some important streets are numbered up one side and down the other, and in Boston there are places where the two sides of the street have different names; one side, for instance, being Tremont Row and the other Court street. In Petrograd the numbers are on little lanterns, lighted at night.—Exchange.

THE SEAL RING

The seal ring is known to be the oldest style of ring. It dates back to the days of the Old Testament, and products of the glyptic art, as gem engraving was called, were known in the most remote times. In Exodus 28:17-20 mention is made of the following stones, upon which the names of the twelve children of Isreal were engraved: The sardius, the topaz, the carbuncle, the emerald, the sapphire, the diamond, the ligure, the agate, the amethyst, beryl, onyx, and jasper. In verse two of the same chapter we find mention of the engraving of signets upon the hardest stones. It is believed that the Egyptians instructed the Israelites in the art of stone engraving. The Egyptians used the lapidary's wheel and the emery powder, and knew the use of the diamond in engraving other hard stones. Among the Assyrian and Babylonian ruins were found fine specimens of signets on gems, many of them set in rings.—Exchange.

INTERNED

"Our last cook stayed with us six months."

"What; really?"

"Yes; she broke her leg in three places an hour after she arrived and the doctor wouldn't let her be moved."

IS IT LIKE THIS?

"The honorable player is out," said the Japanese umpire.

"But the honorable ball was too low."

"It was right over the honorable plate and a strike. With profound admiration for your ancestors and yourself, I insist that you be seated on the honorable players' bench."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

PERSONALLY INTERESTED

Tony, the office janitor, had been working faithfully at his job for several years, when he surprised his employer one day by asking for a vacation.

"We can't get along very well without you," said the boss. "You don't need a vacation. You'll only blow in your money and come back broke."

"I like to have a vacation," persisted Tony. "I get married, and I kinda like to be there."

THE PESSIMIST

A pessimist is a son of the man who didn't believe there was any such thing as electricity.

He is an offspring of the man who was sure that the horseless carriage would never come, and a nephew of the man who was willing to bet money that men would never fly.

A pessimist is a direct descendant of the man who was sure that wireless telegraphy was a fool's dream and a submarine merely the creation of a fiction writer's brain.

The pessimist's ancestry scoffed at the telephone, the typesetting machine, the twenty-story building, anesthetics, and every forward step the optimists have taken for the betterment of human life.

If the pessimists of the past had been right, men would still be living in caves and trying to get their meals with clubs and flint arrows. And evidently they died without publicly confessing their mistakes, for their pessimistic children continue to prophecy dismally that everything that is surely going to be cannot possibly come to pass. They seem to be born with the habit and cannot get over it.—Detroit Free Press.

ON QUITTING

How much grit do you think you've got?
Can you quit a thing that you like a lot?
You may talk of pluck; it's an easy word,
And where'er you go it is often heard.
But can you tell to a jot or guess
Just how much courage you now possess?

Don't boast of your grit till you've tried it out,
Nor prate to men of your courage stout,
For it's easy enough to retain a grin
In the face of a fight there's a chance to win.
But the sort of grit that is good to own
Is the stuff you need when you're all alone.

How much grit do you think you've got?
Can you turn from joys that you like a lot?
Have you ever tested yourself to know
How far with yourself your will can go?
If you want to know whether or not you've grit
Just pick out a joy that you like—to quit.

It's bully sport and it's open fight,
It will keep you busy both day and night,
For the toughest kind of a game you'll find
Is to make your body obey your mind,
And you never will know what is meant by grit
Unless there's something you've tried to quit.

HOW GOLD LEAF IS MADE

The metal worked by the "gold-beaters" comes to them in wide bars or nuggets. It must be weighed, melted, and made into inch-wide ribbons before the beating begins. The ribbon is then cut into inch squares and beaten with a hammer wielded by a stalwart workman. When each leaf has been beaten thin it is transferred to a mold, where it is beaten again for a period of four hours. The beating is accomplished by means of a wooden hammer weighing from seven to eighteen pounds on a sheepskin cushion resting on a granite block.

The gold beaten is usually twenty-two or twenty-three karats fine. A litle alloy of copper or silver is added to make it spread. It would be impossible for the beaters to handle absolutely pure gold.

Gold leaf is packed more by the aid of the breath than by the aid of the hands. The operation of transferring a sheet of almost transparent gold leaf from one place to another is of such delicacy that it is possible to accomplish it only by a slight puff of the breath. The packers, for the most part, are girls, to whom, after the beating of the gold, the leaf is handed.

The girls lift the unshaped leaf from the mold with a pair of wooden pinchers, flatten it out on a sheepskin cushion by gently blowing on it, cut it into a perfect square, place it between the leaves of the book, and flatten it out with the breath. A book consists of twenty-five leaves, and a skilled operator can pack seventy books a day.—Modern Mechanics.

WOULD APPRECIATE IT

A minister home from the trenches has been recounting his experiences among the Scotch regiments, and one of the interesting stories he tells is of a wounded Jock whom he found rather depressed, and on being asked whether he would like to dictate a letter home, he assented. Thereupon the minister brought a table with writing material to his bedside. However, he found Jock tonguetied, and unable to begin, so much so that the parson said, after a while:

"Come along, now; I'm in a hurry. We must make a start."

"What will I say?"

No reply.

"Will I begin, 'My dear wife?'"

"Aye," said Jock, "pit that doon. That'll amuse her."—Exchange.

IRRIGATION IN INDIA

The system of irrigation seems highly commendable in being at once very simple, very economical and thoroughly efficient. In this part of India, the United Provinces, water for irrigation is gotten for the most part from wells which are found everywhere through the fields. These are easily dug in the loose, sandy soil, and water is always found, except in famine years, at fifteen or twenty feet beneath the surface. This water is lifted to the surface in various ways, very often by a pair of bullocks with a rope, simple windlass, and large cowhide water bag, sometimes by a long pole balanced on top of a post or in the fork of a tree with a heavy stone fastened to the large end to lift the weight of water. Occasionally instead of the stone, one sees a man doing a sort of tight rope stunt on the pole, walking back and forth to change the equilibrium. There is very little difficulty in distributing the water, because of the general flatness of the fields. When water needs to be elevated to a higher ditch, it is done by two men swinging a basket with a steady, pendulum-like motion.—The Christian Herald.

Arid plains, lakes, rich fields of grain, deep forests—a variety of scenes—make this district ideal for the venture, say the promoters of the project. The old-fashioned, soul-stirring revival is gone. In its place is the movie, teaching and inspiring to a better life.

HANFORD, Cal., Sept. 5.—Financed by funds gathered among local sportsmen, 1,621,000 trout fly from the Mt. Shasta hatchery will be planted in the Tule and Kaweah rivers during the next week.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Orders of the California Industrial Welfare Commission fixing $10 weekly as the minimum wage for girls employed in mercantile pursuits—including salesgirls—became effective and in many instances brought increases in salaries to-day. The same order fixes a scale of wages for the inexperienced female help, the $10 wage applying only to those with experience.

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 5.—As the first step toward setting into operation the new California colonization plan for which appropriations were made at the last session of the legislature, the Land Settlement Board, created under the law to administer land colonization, has sent out a call for offers to sell the state tracts of land of from 4000 to 6000 acres. This land is to be resold under a partial payment and rural credits plan, to California farmers. Offers will be accepted up to October 15. Prof. Elwood Mead, head of the department of rural institutions of the University of California, has been named chairman of the land settlement board, and David M. Morgan, also of the University of California, will be secretary.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 5.—The state treasury was enriched today by the sum of $25 through the sale at public auction of $1,750,000 worth of state highway bonds by State Treasurer Richardson to the National City bond company of New York. The $25 was the state's profit.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 5.—Five thousand dollars have been appropriated to State Horticultural Commissioner Hecke upon approval of the governor and state board of control for use in fighting the mealy-bug, a citrus fruit pest. Growers in southern California have become greatly alarmed over the spread of this insect and the growers are more or less at its mercy. It is Hecke's plan to devise some satisfactory method of handling this pest and the money will be used with the end in view. Harry S. Smith, superintendent of the state insectary, has been sent south by Hecke to supervise the organization of the work.

PRINTING PICTURES

Many children enjoy taking pictures with a camera, but few young people know that very pretty pictures may be printed without any camera at all. All you need to make these pictures is a roll of blue print paper and a piece of window glass. You can get the paper at a photographer's or architect's. Be careful not to let the light touch the paper before you are ready to use it.

The next thing to do is to select dainty flowers or grasses or ferns.

Arrange your pretty growths quickly on a piece of the blue paper, then cover with the glass, and leave them in the bright sunlight. Now you my rest for ten minutes, while the sun does your work for you. A window sill is a good place for making these prints.

When the clock tells you that ten minutes have passed, lift the glass and remove the flowers. You will see a pretty white impression of them on the blue paper. To make this impression lasting, dip the paper in water for a few minutes, then take it out and pin it on a board to dry.—Churchman.

There is a lot more pleasure in hoeing your own row than in depending upon somebody to help you.

The gold cure may be all right in its way, but a man seldom feels the need of the cure until his gold is all gone.
